

Netjib

Netjib is a friendly and innovative digital agency based in Chatterton Village near Bromley Common.

Since 2008 they have been providing small and medium businesses with tailor-made solutions that make the Internet work harder for them, for example by selling online, increasing awareness and foot traffic or building up relationships with existing customers.

Led by David Philippe who himself has over ten years of experience in the industry, Netjib expertise includes web design and development, email marketing, search marketing and online advertising. Consulting as well as reporting services, like competitive analysis or online visibility studies, are also available on demand.

As a Microsoft-registered partner, all their web development work is carried out using enterprise grade technologies like ASP.Net or SQL Server to name but a few. However, they also leverage and integrate turnkey solutions from other vendors to maximise effectiveness whilst remaining competitive.

It is also interesting to note that unlike some of their competitors, Netjib does not charge a running hourly fee but works on a project-basis instead. This way, the focus is on the quality of the work and the achievement of a specific business goal as opposed to how much time was spent on a project.

"I think it is fairer if all parties know what to expect right from the start" says David.

Passionate about business, the agency is proud to work with companies of various sizes and sectors from sole traders to multinationals. Recent projects include an event booking website for an IT training company and an online store for a London start-up specialising in cashmere clothes for children.

Further examples of work are available on the company website <http://www.netjib.co.uk> and they are always happy to provide details or answer questions on any of the projects featured. Project assessments and estimates are provided free of charge.
